SAINTS' LEGENDS IN MEDIEVAL SARUM BREVIARIES

Catalogue and Studies

SHERRY L. REAMES

Sarum Use was the most widely used form of the liturgy in late medieval England, but its service books were much less standardized than their modern counterparts. The lack of uniformity is particularly marked in Sarum breviaries' lessons on saints, which can vary enormously from copy to copy. This book is the first comprehensive examination of those lessons and the manuscripts that preserve them. It provides a catalogue of over 80 manuscripts and 12 early printed versions, giving a brief description of each one. This is followed by studies of the key aspects of the lessons.

A DESCRIPTIVE CATALOGUE OF THE ENGLISH MANUSCRIPTS OF JOHN GOWER'S CONFESSIO AMANTIS

DEREK PEARSALL
& LINNE R. MOONEY

This descriptive catalogue of all of the surviving manuscripts containing Gower's Confessio Amantis is the first work to bring together extensive detailed descriptions of its forty-nine complete manuscripts and numerous fragments and excerpts. Each description in this catalogue covers the manuscript's contents, artwork, physical qualities such as size, material, collation, foliation, etc., as well as additions by later users and provenance. There is also an introduction giving an overview of the corpus, and appendices for reference to the current whereabouts of the manuscripts, fragments and excerpts, and listing Gower's Latin and French works that appear in some of the manuscripts. Eight colour illustrations provide context for discussions of the miniatures and illuminated borders of some manuscripts.

THE DORSET ROTULUS

Contextualizing and Reconstructing
the Early English Motet

MARGARET BENT, JARED C.
HARTT & PETER M. LEFFERTS

Although the motet in England plays a vital role in the music-historical narrative of the first decades of the 1300s, it has too often been overlooked in modern scholarship, due largely to its preservation in numerous but almost entirely fragmentary sources. In 2017, substantial new fragments of medieval polyphony came to light, which had originated at the Benedictine monastery of Abbotsbury; its two leaves preserve significant portions of four large-scale Latin-texted motets from early fourteenth-century England. This book introduces the manuscript and its provenance, relates it to other scrolls of late medieval music, contextualizes its motets, and analyses and reconstructs each of the motets, providing complete performable transcriptions of three of these compositions as well as three of its large-scale comparands. Spurred by the Dorset discovery, this monograph, the first in thirty-five years devoted to the medieval motet in England, offers a new evaluation of the richness of the English repertory in its own terms.

THE GUILD BOOK OF THE BARBERS AND SURGEONS OF YORK (BRITISH LIBRARY, EGERTON MS 2572)

Study and Edition

Edited by RICHARD D. WRAGG

This new multi-disciplinary examination of the York Guild Book presents a comprehensive edition of its content and a detailed study of the creation and use of this fascinating manuscript. The York Guild Book was not owned by any one person but was intended to be representative of the types of manuscripts the Guild's members might have individually possessed. The Guild's commission elevated their manuscript's functional content into something which could be proudly owned and displayed, as is demonstrated by the stylishly executed pen and ink drawings, two of which are possibly unique. Through a contextualisation of the form and content of the manuscript, the book articulates ideas about material culture and the ceremonial role of secular manuscripts whilst shedding new light on the dissemination and status of medieval medical texts.

THE RECEPTION OF CHAUCER'S SHORTER POEMS, 1400-1450

Female Audiences, English Manuscripts, French Contexts

KARA A. DOYLE

Readers have disagreed for centuries about the way Chaucer represented female voices in his Hous of Fame, Parliament of Foules, Anelida and Arcite, Legend of Good Women and Book of the Duchess; but little attention has hitherto been paid to the earliest manuscript contexts in which these poems appear. It demonstrates that, even in unrelated manuscripts, Chaucer's earliest compilers repeatedly create for these poems a mixed-gender audience well versed in the lively French poetic conversation about the problem of a lack of interest on a woman's part: can she legitimately refuse the advances of her suitor on the grounds that men's fin'amors language cannot be trusted? By highlighting this French controversy and its echoes in the English poetry of Chaucer, Hoccleve, Lydgate, Roos, and others, these manuscript compilers construct a Chaucer who participates posthumously in an ongoing literary debate about female voice, female agency, female scepticism, and the false promises of male fin'amors suitors.

MANUSCRIPT CULTURE AND MEDIEVAL DEVOTIONAL TRADITIONS

Essays in Honour of Michael G. Sargent

Edited by JENNIFER N BROWN & NICOLE R RICE

Michael G. Sargent's scholarship on late medieval English devotional literature has been hugely influential on the fields of Middle English literature, religious studies, and manuscript studies. The essays in this volume pay tribute to Sargent's influence, extending and complementing his work on devotional texts and the books in which they travelled. The themes of translation, manuscript transmission and the varieties of devotional practice are to the fore. Inspired by Sargent's work on Love's Middle English translation of pseudo-Bonaventuran devotional texts, they explore other Middle English translations within this tradition, considering the implications of translation strategies for shaping readers' practices, while other essays examine Carthusian and Birgittine texts as they appear in new contexts, probing the continuing influence of these orders on devotional life and theological controversy.
