NEW! Seasonal Sociology

Edited by Tonya K. Davidson (Carleton University) and Ondine Park (MacEwan University)

Fall 2020 / 7.5 x 9.25 / paper / 416 pp / 9781487594084
US & CDN $56.95 / eBook $44.95

Life in Canada is marked, celebrated, enjoyed, and dreaded in ways that respond specifically to the seasons. Thinking about the seasons sociologically opens up a unique perspective for studying and understanding social life. Each chapter in this collection approaches the seasons and the passage of time as a way to explore issues of sociological interest. These contemporary, Canadian case studies are wide-ranging and include analyses of pumpkin spice lattes, policing in schools, law and colonialism, summer cottages, seasonal affective disorder, New Year's resolutions, Vaisakhi celebrations, and more. Seasonal Sociology offers provocative new ways of thinking about the nature of our collective lives.

This unique and innovative text provides undergraduate students with tools to think sociologically through the lens of everyday life. Normative social organization and taken for granted beliefs and actions are exposed as key mechanisms of power and social inequality in western societies today. By “unpacking the centre” students are encouraged to turn their social worlds inside out and explore alternatives to the dominant social order. Each chapter includes intriguing exercises, study questions, and key terms that link to the volume’s comprehensive glossary.

Falsehood and Fallacy: How to Think, Read, and Write in the Twenty-First Century

Bethany Kilcrease (Aquinas College)

Spring 2021 / 5.5 x 8.5 / paper / 208 pp / 9781487588618
US & CDN $21.95 / eBook $17.95

In a time of Fake News and frequently fallacious argumentation, how can we know and convey the truth in a winsome manner?

Falsehood and Fallacy is a short, pithy book that shows students how to evaluate what they read in a digital age. Written in a positive style and full of useful tools and exercises, it embraces the idea that everyone is a writer and has aptitude for further growth. It also recognizes that in our politically divided landscape, we all need to be able to read and research more critically in order to make well-reasoned arguments.

Kickstarting Your Academic Career: Skills to Succeed in the Social Sciences

Robert L. Ostergard, Jr. and Stacy B. Fisher
(both at University of Nevada, Reno)

2017 / 5.5 x 8.5 / paper / 144 pp / 9781442635616
US & CDN $18.95 / eBook $15.95

Kickstarting Your Academic Career is a primer on the common scholastic demands that social sciences students face upon entering college or university. Based on the challenges that instructors most often find students need help with, the authors offer practical advice and tips on topics such as how to communicate with instructors, take notes, read a textbook, research and write papers, and write successful exams. The succinct writing and clear organization make this an essential reference for first-year students as they encounter post-secondary work for the first time.

2019 / 6 x 9 / paper / 424 pp / 9781487588182
US & CDN $54.95 / eBook $43.95

Written specifically for one-semester courses, Capitalism and Classical Social Theory offers solid coverage of the classical triumvirate (Marx, Durkheim, and Weber), but also extends the canon strategically to include early female theorists and the writings of Du Bois. In the third edition, the authors replace a discussion of Simmel with a chapter on George Herbert Mead. The text has been updated and revised throughout, with a new conclusion focusing on the changing socio-economic context of the post-Trump, post-Brexit world and the rise of populist discourse and economic and environmental uncertainty.

Social Theory: Continuity and Confrontation, Third Edition

Edited by Roberta Garner and Black Hawk Hancock (both at DePaul University)

2014 / 8 x 10 / paper / 672 pp / 9781442606487
US & CDN $82.00 / eBook $66.00

The third edition of this popular reader reflects considerable changes. With over seventy readings representing a wide diversity of theorists, it offers a breadth of coverage not available in other collections. The framework for understanding theory as a set of conversations over time is maintained and deepened, with a focus on key transitional theorists who helped pave the way from classical to contemporary theory. New contextual and biographical materials surround the primary readings, and each chapter includes a study guide with key terms, discussion questions, and innovative classroom exercises.

Fall 2020 / 8 x 10 / paper / 176 pp / 9781487524807
US & CDN $28.95 / eBook $23.95

Through a series of rich photographs, Art of Captivity tells a compelling story about the war on drugs in Central America. Alongside a spike in the use of crack cocaine, Guatemala City has witnessed the proliferation of Pentecostal drug rehabilitation centers. Art of Captivity explores these centers as architectural forms, while also showcasing the cultural production that takes place inside them, including drawings and letters created by those held captive. This stunning work of visual ethnography humanizes those held inside these centers, breaks down stereotypes, and reveals intimate portraits of a population held hostage by a war on drugs.

A Good Book, In Theory: Making Sense Through Inquiry, Third Edition

Alan Sears (Ryerson University) and James Cairns (Wilfrid Laurier University, Brantford)

2015 / 5.5 x 8.5 / paper / 240 pp / 9781442600775
US & CDN $29.95 / eBook $24.95

This highly original and compelling book offers an introduction to the art and science of social inquiry, including the theoretical and methodological frameworks that support that inquiry. The third edition offers coverage of post-modernism and Indigenous ways of knowing, as well as a discussion of the research process and how to communicate arguments effectively. The result is a book that blends the best of earlier editions with updates that provide a strong foundation in critical thinking, rooted in the social sciences but relevant across disciplines.

Indigenous Methodologies: Characteristics, Conversations, and Contexts, Second Edition

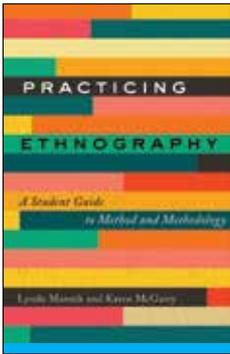

Margaret Kovach (University of Saskatchewan)

Spring 2021 / 6 x 9 / paper / 264 pp / 9781487525644

US & CDN $29.95 / eBook $23.95

Indigenous Methodologies is a groundbreaking and authoritative text in the field of Indigenous research. Since its original publication in 2009, it has become the standard guide to Indigenous methodologies and is used in university courses around the world. The second edition includes a more fulsome discussion of Indigenous theory as it relates to analysis, new chapters on community partnership and capacity building, an added focus on oracy and other forms of knowledge dissemination, and a renewed call to decolonize the academy. Discussion questions have been added throughout the book in order to enhance classroom use.

Practicing Ethnography: A Student Guide to Method and Methodology

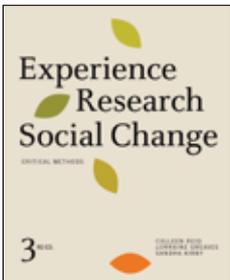

Edited by Lynda Mannik (York University) and Karen McGarry (McMaster University)

2017 / 6 x 9 / paper / 288 pp / 9781487593124

US & CDN $40.95 / eBook $32.95

Practicing Ethnography offers a theoretically informed guide to ethnographic methods that is also practical in approach, and reflects the challenges and concerns of contemporary ethnography. Students draw from vignettes situated within North America to learn how various methods work in the real world, and how ethnography informs contemporary theory. Exercises and assignments encourage students to practice these methods in a familiar context, and a sustained focus on visual methodologies offers coverage not found in other books.

Experience Research Social Change: Critical Methods, Third Edition

The Conflict over the Conflict: The Israel/Palestine Campus Debate

Kenneth S. Stern (Bard Center for the Study of Hate)
Foreword by Nadine Strossen

2020 / 6 x 9 / cloth / 296 pp / 9781487507367
US & CDN $29.95 / eBook $29.95

The Conflict over the Conflict chronicles one of the most divisive and toxic issues on today's college and university campuses: Israel/Palestine. In this passionate book, Kenneth S. Stern examines attempts from each side to censor the other at a time when some say students, rather than being challenged to wrestle with difficult issues and ideas, are being quarantined from them. According to Stern, the campus is the best place to mine this conflict and our intense views about it to help future generations do what they are supposed to do: think. The Conflict over the Conflict shows how this is possible.

2019 / 6 x 9 / paper / 296 pp / 9781487588069
US & CDN $39.95 / eBook $31.95

This book critically assesses a series of complex and topical debates, helping students to make sense of the politics surrounding the Israeli-Palestinian relationship. Each chapter considers one topic, represented by two or three essays offered in conversation with one another. Topics include scholarly and activist interpretations of narratives in the context of Israel/Palestine; the concept of self-determination for Jewish Israelis and Palestinians; the debate over settler-colonialism as an appropriate framework for interpreting the history of Israel/Palestine; and questions surrounding Jewish and Palestinian refugees and the impact of displacement, among others.

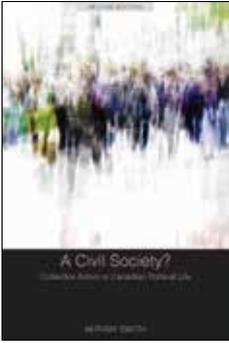

Learning Activism: The Intellectual Life of Contemporary Social Movements

Aziz Choudry (McGill University)

2015 / 6 x 9 / paper / 216 pp / 9781442607903
US & CDN $32.95 / eBook 26.95

Learning Activism is designed to encourage a deeper engagement with the intellectual life of activists who organize for social, political, and ecological justice. Drawing on his own personal experiences in activism, and from a variety of social movements, Choudry suggests that these movements can best be understood if we engage with the learning, knowledge, debates, and theorizing that goes on within them. Examples include anti-colonial organizing in the Asia-Pacific, migrant worker struggles in Canada, and the Quebec student strike.

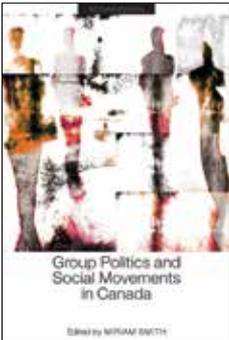

A Civil Society? Collective Actors in Canadian Political Life, Second Edition

Miriam Smith (York University)

2018 / 6 x 9 / paper / 224 pp / 9781487593667
US & CDN $35.95 / eBook $27.95

A Civil Society? surveys the main approaches to the study of group politics in Canada, with a strong comparative perspective. Unique to this brief and accessible text is a comprehensive theoretical framework that helps students evaluate policy areas surveyed in the book, while also pointing them toward future study. The second edition opens with a discussion of power, political institutions, and identity. It goes on to explore group and social movement activity across a range of institutions. Throughout, Smith systematically integrates consideration of the role of gender, racialization, and indigeneity in contemporary Canadian group and movement politics.

Edited by Miriam Smith (York University)

2014 / 6 x 9 / paper / 400 pp / 9781442606951
US & CDN $48.95 / eBook $39.95

Group Politics and Social Movements in Canada explores a wide range of organized group and social movement activity in Canadian politics. Particularly distinctive is the inclusion of Quebec nationalism and Indigenous politics. Many other areas of collective activity are also included: the Occupy movement and anti-poverty organizing; disability; lesbian and gay politics; feminism; farmers and organized interests in agriculture; Christian evangelical groups; environment; and health movements. Each chapter provides an overview of the group or movement along with an account of its main networks and organizations, strategies, goals, successes, and failures.

The presence and experiences of Black people at elite universities have been largely underrepresented and erased from institutional histories. This book engages with a collection of these experiences that span half a century and reflect differences in class, gender, and national identifications among Black scholars. By mapping Black people's experiences of studying and teaching at McGill University, this book reveals how the "whiteness" of the university both includes and exceeds the racial identities of students and professors.

Lissa: A Story about Medical Promise, Friendship, and Revolution

Sherine Hamdy (University of California, Irvine)

and Coleman Nye (Simon Fraser University)

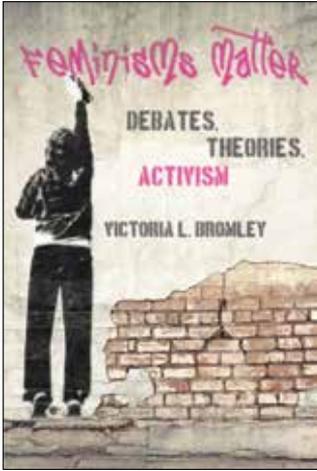

Artwork by Sarula Bao and Caroline Brewer

(both at Rhode Island School of Design)

2017 / 6 x 9 / paper / 304 pp / 9781487593476

US & CDN $25.95 / eBook $19.95

As young girls in Cairo, Anna and Layla strike up an unlikely friendship that crosses class, cultural, and religious divides. Their friendship is put to the test as stark differences in their perspectives are revealed. Lissa brings anthropological research to life in comic form, combining scholarly insights and accessible, visually-rich storytelling to foster greater understanding of global politics, inequalities, and solidarity.

Feminisms Matter: Debates, Theories, Activism

Victoria L. Bromley
(Carleton University)

2012 / 6 x 9 / paper / 272 pp / 9781442605008
US & CDN $35.95 / eBook $29.95

In this lively narrative, newcomers to women's and gender studies explore a refreshing take on a subject matter often loaded with assumptions. Feminist theories are viewed through the critical intersections of race, class, sexuality, age, and ability, and are embedded in the experiences of everyday life, allowing Bromley to engage students in doing theory, in making sense of concepts like "power" and "privilege," and in effecting social change. The book contains a variety of pedagogical devices, including provocative images, discussion questions, and classroom activities, to help cultivate critical thinking.

Health Matters: Evidence, Critical Social Science, and Health Care in Canada

Edited by Eric Mykhalovskiy (York University), Jacqueline A. Choiniere (York University), Pat Armstrong (York University), and Hugh Armstrong (Carleton University)

2020 / 6 x 9 / paper / 304 pp / 9781487525385
US & CDN $39.95 / eBook $31.95

In Health Matters, contributors address multiple dimensions of health care, such as nursing, midwifery, home care, pharmaceuticals, medical education, and palliative care. Through their explorations, the book poses questions about the role that the forms of expertise associated with evidence-based health care play in shaping how we understand and organize health services. Working with analytic perspectives such as feminism, Marxist political economy, critical ethnography, science and technology studies, and institutional ethnography, the volume demonstrates how critical social science perspectives contribute alternative perspectives about what counts as health care problems and how to best address them.

Madness, Violence, and Power: A Critical Collection

Edited by Andrea Daley (University of Waterloo), Lucy Costa (The Empowerment Council), and Peter Beresford (University of Essex)

2019 / 6 x 9 / paper / 416 pp / 9781442629974
US & CDN $34.95 / eBook $34.95

Madness, Violence, and Power disengages from the common forms of discussion about violence related to mental health service users and survivors which position those users or survivors as more likely to enact violence or become victims of violence. Instead, this book seeks to broaden understandings of violence manifest in the lives of mental health service users/survivors, “push” current considerations to explore the impacts of systems and institutions that manage “abnormality,” and create and foster space to explore the role of our own communities in justice and accountability dialogues.

Spring 2021 / 6 x 9 / paper / 224 pp / 9781487508081
US & CDN $32.95 / eBook $26.95

The health care system in Canada receives a great deal of international attention, but it is subject to considerable critique and debate locally. Health Systems in Transition: Canada provides an insightful and objective analysis of the organization, governance, financing, and delivery of health care as well as comparisons between the Canadian system and others around the world. Drawing on the most reliable and recent data available, this book reveals the strengths and weaknesses of Canadian health care.

Health Systems in Transition: USA, Second Edition

Thomas Rice (UCLA), Pauline Rosenau (University of Texas), Lynn Y. Unruh (University of Central Florida), and Andrew J. Barnes (Virginia Commonwealth University)

Spring 2021 / 6 x 9 / paper / 448 pp / 9781487526450
US & CDN $39.95 / eBook $31.95

This analysis of the United States health care system reviews developments in organization and governance, health financing, health care provision, health reforms, and health system performance. The U.S. system has a large and well-trained health workforce, a wide range of high-quality medical specialists, a robust health sector research program, and, for selected services, some of the best medical outcomes in the world. But it also suffers from incomplete coverage of its citizenry, health expenditure levels per person far exceeding all other countries, poor indicators of quality and outcomes, and an unequal distribution of resources and outcomes. This book provides an in-depth discussion of these issues and a thorough review of the U.S. health care system.

This is the first book to fully review the Mexican health care system: its organization and governance, health financing, health care provision, health reforms, and health system performance. The book is based on the most recent data and focuses on the three main components that constitute Mexico's health system: 1) employment-based social insurance programs; 2) public assistance services for the uninsured; and 3) a private sector composed of service providers, insurers, and pharmaceutical and medical device manufacturers and distributors.

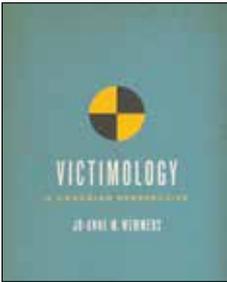

Women and Gendered Violence in Canada: An Intersectional Approach

Chris Bruckert (University of Ottawa) and Tuulia Law (York University)

2018 / 7.5 x 9.25 / paper / 416 pp / 9781442636149
US & CDN $62.00 / eBook $49.95

By drawing on a range of theoretical traditions emerging from feminism, criminology, and sociology, Women and Gendered Violence in Canada significantly expands the conversation on violence against women. The first section of the book develops the conceptual and contextual framework that informs the remainder of the text, and the following three sections are organized around types of victimization: interpersonal, labour site, and state. Each chapter ends with lists of suggested activities, and first-person narratives are integrated throughout to personalize the material and issues being examined.

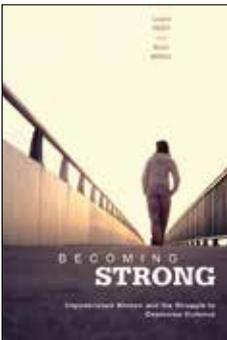

Victimology: A Canadian Perspective

Jo-Anne M. Wemmers (University of Montreal)

2017 / 7.5 x 9.25 / paper / 336 pp / 9781442634831
US & CDN $58.00 / eBook $47.95

Victimology is a relatively new and emerging interdisciplinary area that crosses the fields of criminology, law, sociology, and justice. Written by one of the world's leading experts on victimology, this book is designed to offer a broad introduction to the subject. Unlike other texts that are organized around different types of victimization, this book is informed by a holistic, victim-centred approach that treats victims' rights as human rights.

Becoming Strong: Impoverished Women and the Struggle to Overcome Violence

Laura Huey (Western University) and
Ryan Broll (University of Guelph)

2018 / 6 x 9 / paper / 160 pp / 9781442626850
US & CDN $26.95 / eBook $26.95

Becoming Strong examines the negative patterns common to cases of homeless female victims of violence and develops informed solutions for responding to issues that perpetuate cycles of female homelessness. Drawing on more than 150 in-depth interviews, the authors provide a comprehensive examination of trauma and the role it can play in shaping homeless women's lives.

Sex Industry Slavery: Protecting Canada's Youth

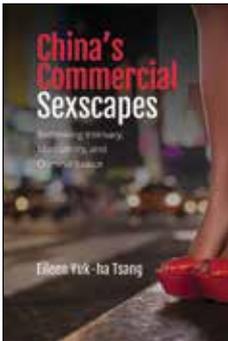

Robert Christmas

Fall 2020 / 6 x 9 / paper / 288 pp / 9781487524852
US & CDN $39.95 / eBook $39.95

Many young women are coerced into oppressive relationships in the sex industry, often starting in childhood. There are numerous barriers and challenges for children who are vulnerable to exploitation as well as for survivors striving to leave the sex industry; however, there are also many opportunities to help them. Based on award-winning research in Manitoba by veteran police officer Robert Christmas, this book tells the gut-wrenching stories of survivors, social workers, police officers, lawmakers, and activists.

Addressing the function of third parties in the sex industry, Getting Past 'the Pimp' incorporates solid empirical evidence – including documentary analysis and interviews with third parties and sex workers – to unpack the roles and relationships of third parties in three main sectors: incall/outcall, stripping, and street-based prostitution. Never idealizing sex work, the authors present the major issues that both sex workers and third parties face as they navigate this stigmatized and criminalized area.
